PUBLISHERS IN CONVENTION AT EDMONTON

The proprietors and publishers of newspapers from all points in Alberta and eastern British Columbia gathered in Edmonton last week for the annual convention of the Alberta and Eastern British Columbia Press Association. The convention opened on Thursday morning and several business sessions were held during the following three or four days.

On Thursday the visitors were entertained to a civic dinner, served in the large auditorium of the new Empire hotel. About one hundred and sixty people including some fifty ladies took part in this function. Dinner was served a-la-carte, and was both pleasing and elaborate.

On Friday forenoon the ladies of the party were entertained by the Edmonton Women's Press Club to an auto ride through the city and to all points of interest, including the university, government buildings and exhibition grounds.

At the Co-Ed hotel, where a special spread was arranged.

In the afternoon of the same day the business heads of the city with their usual spirit of hospitality entertained the pressmen to an auto trip over the city and suburbs, which was most enjoyable.

At night the party of about two hundred became the guests of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Co., who placed a special train for conveyance to the end of steel. The train was made up of ten cars, including diners and sleepers, and the entire service including meals and refreshments was given gratis by the railway company.

The train was stopped at Robson, Jasper and Tete Jaune de Cache. The first long stop was made at the latter point, which is the last town of importance on the present steel end. Here the camera man began to busy himself and a number of ideal pictures were had of the party taking in the novel sights in the canvas-thatched town. The scenery around Tete Jaune is really magnificent, the surrounding hills covered with a forest of poplar, birch and forming a lovely base for the towering mountains behind.

Return was made to Jasper at midnight Saturday, where the train was side-tracked and the party given an opportunity for rest.

At 9:30 on Sunday morning the party responded to the bugle call to attend divine service, after which every means of conveyance was commissioned to take the party through Jasper Park to Pyramid and Patricia lakes. At the latter point the party became the guests of Lieutenant-Colonel Maynard Rogers, the park superintendent, by whom the surrounding country was well described and the proposals of the government in connection with future plans related.

Jasper Park covers an area of 90,440 miles, all of which is covered by a young growth of birch, poplar, pine and spruce timber. A number of lakes of considerable proportion are located at the base of the mountains, all of which contain an abundance of fish of good species. Winged game is also found in abundance all over the reserve.

It is the intention of the reservation authorities to introduce the establishment of modern hotels and pleasure resorts for the accommodation of the people from the world over who are being attracted to the Canadian Alps. The scrub-brush is to be gathered off the reserve and burned to be followed by the protection of the young growth and the carrying out of a system of forestry. Good automobile roads are already constructed to Patricia and Pyramid lakes, which will be extended to other interesting points of the reserve.

It is the intention of the town planning committee to guard against the get-rich-quick. A commission will be appointed to provide a schedule of hotel building prices for those who wish to build on the reserve.

A stop was made at Robson for a few hours, but the clouds hanging around the mountain prevented the party from seeing the highest peak of the Canadian Rockies. However, before getting out of reach the sunset peak shone out just for a minute and afforded a splendid opportunity to the camera man and the sight-seers were made doubly satisfied.

At Pocahontas a five-hour stay was made, giving the excursionists an opportunity to visit the Punch Bowl and other interesting features about the model town. Pocahontas as a town is admirably situated and planned. About one hundred and eighty model cottages have recently been built by the coal company, all of which are equipped with a good water supply. A large store is operated by the company, at which miners may purchase goods at nominal prices, leaving no one under the obligation of sending out of town. The post office and mine-manager's residence are also very commanding positions. The plant of the company is of modern type, having a large tiple capable of handling 2,000 tons of coal per day. The coal cropings are exceptionally good, and with the operation of new seams on the opposite side of the railroad it is expected will give employment to upwards of seven hundred men. At present 380 men are employed in development and prospecting, and this number is being increased every week.

Return was made to Edmonton on Monday morning.

This convention marks a new era in the work of the Association, for in it the provincial organization decided to become amalgamated into the national organization, thus becoming a more recognized factor.

OPENING OF THE ALBERTA LEGISLATURE

Edmonton, Alta., Sept. 18.—With customary pomp and ceremony, the first session of the third Alberta legislature was opened this afternoon, by His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Bulsey, in the presence of a large and fashionable gathering which included the wives of cabinet ministers, and members and prominent people from all over the province, the most distinguished among these being Sir Gilbert Parker, the well known novelist and British parliamentarian.

The ceremony was rather longer than usual owing to the necessity of electing a speaker of the new house. There was only one nomination, the reelection of Hon. C. W. Fisher, speaker since the province was formed, being unanimous.

The speech from the throne contained no forecast of any important new legislation, but referred to general conditions prevailing in the province; the strain of financial depression; now happily lessening; the increase in population and the unimpaired heritage of minerals in the province; the development of agricultural schools and opening of office in London in charge of an agent general.

Reference was made to the commission which has visited Europe, studying agricultural credit, and the hope was expressed that the report might be of assistance to agricultural interests.

Regret was also expressed that the federal government has not yet taken steps to place the prairie provinces in the same position as other provinces of the Dominion in regard to natural resources and expressed the hope that "that only by equal, as to terms, can the true spirit of confederation be carried out."

The newly-elected president is Editor Galbraith, of the Red Deer Advocate. Mr. Galbraith is generally recognized as a leader of merit, and is at present mayor of Red Deer, president of the municipalities association in addition to his new office.

Mr. Tilley, traffic superintendent of the Grand Trunk western division, and Mr. Gorman, superintendent of dining service, accompanied the conventionists on the trip. They were untiring in their efforts to accord the utmost hospitality to their guests, and every point of particular interest was described in an exhaustive manner by them.

A special official car was attached to the train, part of which was stocked with illustrative literature and souvenirs of every description. These were for free distribution, and were left in charge of Mrs. Lett, wife of the master photographer of the company, and every member of the party was supplied with volumes of data outlining the character of the country through which the Grand Trunk's transcontinental line is passing and the future possibilities of certain divisional points they proposed to open up.

Although the last two sessions of the previous legislature were held in the new parliament building, the opening of the present session marked the actual completion of the structure. The buildings have cost $2,500,000, and have been six years in building.

They are indeed a handsome pile, standing in a commanding position on the brow of the hill overlooking the Saskatchewan river, at the point where it is crossed by the new high level bridge of the C.P.R., which has cost $2,000,000. All the provincial department's offices are now grouped under the same roof.

Of the 56 members of the present legislature only six were members at the time the province was formed. These are the speaker, C. W. Fisher. Hon. J. B. Boyle, H. W. McKenney, W. F. Puffer and W. Walker, the chief Liberal whip.

The speech from the throne, delivered by Lieutenant Governor Bulsey, was as follows:

"Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly

"It gives me great pleasure to welcome you to the first session of the third legislature of the Province of Alberta."

"With the more adequate representation of the electorate of this province in your assembly, which you now have, I feel sure that every portion of the country will feel the greater benefit of your deliberations."

"Since the prorogation of the fourth session of the second legislature of your assembly, the people of the province of Alberta in common with the whole civilized world, have felt the strain of a severe financial depression, which, I am pleased to say, is now lessening. Notwithstanding this temporary, however, general business throughout the province has been good. Population has largely increased, with the naturally consequent increase in buildings and improvements and with the unimpaired harvest with which it has passed an all-wise Providence to reward the labor of our farmers."

Priest in N. Y. Convicted for Awful Crime

New York, Sept. 14.—With the arrest early today of the Rev. Hans Schmidt, priest of the St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, charged with the murder of Jennie Annemann, a girl, the mystery surrounding the finding twelve days ago of parts of the dismembered body of a girl in the Hudson river was solved. Schmidt according to the police reports of the arrest, has confessed and at the time of his arrest attempted to commit suicide by cutting his throat with a razor blade.

"I killed her because I loved her—because," Schmidt is alleged to have said while captive, but the police version of the motive for the crime is that the young woman was about to become a mother. He had married her through a ceremony of his own performing, without witnesses.

According to the police, Schmidt's confession was full and complete. It is he is quoted as saying that he killed his companion with a butcher's knife and cut out the body with a razor blade.

The deed was committed, the police say, while the woman slept shortly after midnight on Sept. 2, in an apartment at No. 68 Broadway, where the priest had placed her five days before.

Five bundles, wrapped in bed clothes and papers, were made of the six parts. Five times Schmidt left the apartment with a bundle to cross the street toward the river to the Jersey shore. Five times he landed, over the ferry, but in each case he was caught by the police and taken back to his apartment.

A gaily colored pillow of unusual pattern led to Schmidt's apprehension. This pillow, said police, had been found with the blood of the river, was wrapped around a portion of the torso. The detective traced the pillow to its owner, the girl who lived in the apartment, and the police traced Schmidt and the girl to the apartment, where they were found by the police.

Early today, according to parishioners of the church, Schmidt said to the Rev. Father Braun, pastor of the church, that he would have no more confidence and when asked for his reasons said:

"I have something of importance to tell you." With his superior, Schmidt then retired to the study where the latter told him that had transpired in the flat as a result of the investigation, and Schmidt's confession to the police.

Police officers, however, conducted other associates, and it was alleged that the authorities should be notified. The police, however, were even then on Schmidt's trail, and his arrest followed shortly.

Schmidt, according to the story of his life, was born in Germany, and was many, 18 years, on Dec. 23, 1904, he was ordained by Bishop Knebel, and was sent to St. Augustine's Seminary in Germany. He was connected with the church in Darmstadt, Germany, to Brugg and later came to America because of poor health. He was in New York City a short time, he was assigned to a church at Louisville, Ky. In 1909 he went to a church in Trenton and in December, 1910, he became a priest at Father Braun, pastor of St. Joseph's church, and was assigned to the church in New York City.

Little is known of the history of Father Braun, but he took employment in the St. Joseph's parish house the week before Christmas, 1912, and went to Father Braun, who left his parish house in the summer of 1911, returning on Thanksgiving Day, 1912, and went on a second time August 20th last.

"I'll know about her," he said, "that she came to this country from Germany about two and a half years ago. I understood she was an orphan, and I have a dim recollection that she may have come to me through an advertisement that I placed in a newspaper for a girl. While she had no credentials, I employed her."

Despite her statement to another maid employed in the rectory that she was leaving to be married, Father Braun said tonight that he was fearful to dismiss her for two weeks ago, "because my mode of living was unsatisfactory."

The girl, as nearly as could be learned, was 21 years old.

It is known, however, that Schmidt, according to the police, was a priest of the St. Joseph's church, and was assigned to the church in New York City. He was connected with the church in Darmstadt, Germany, to Brugg and later came to America because of poor health. He was in New York City a short time, he was assigned to a church at Louisville, Ky. In 1909 he went to a church in Trenton and in December, 1910, he became a priest at Father Braun, pastor of St. Joseph's church, and was assigned to the church in New York City.

possession of false papers and obtained his position by means of fabricated testimonials. He escaped prosecution at the time of his arrest.

New York, N.Y., Sept. 15.—In the face of branding as an impostor and a pseudo-priest the Rev. Hans Schmidt, who had been under the charge of Anne Annemann, victim of New York's river mystery, the church authorities began today a sweeping investigation of Schmidt's record and pretensions to ordination.

"We hope, of course, to prove that this inopportune minister was an impostor and that he had been using stolen papers," declared Mrs. Laville, vicar-general of the archdiocese of New York.

That is something which we are trying to clear up now. He came to this diocese with credentials which were apparently in good way authentic and genuine, but we know nothing of him. His crime is too horrible to conceive. We can only hope that he may prove to have been a pseudo-priest."

Reasons Why Scots Seek Homes in Canada

Edmonton, Alta., Sept. 15.—

"Since coming to Canada I have seen why our efforts are fruitless in attempting to check emigration from rural Scotland to the agricultural districts of the Dominion," said Colonel Donald Walter Cameron of Lochiel, Scotland, chief of the Cameron clan, who, accompanied by his wife, Lady Hermeline, daughter of the Duke of Monmouth, is making a tour of the coast and prairie provinces. Continuing he said:

"Really, we cannot blame our people for coming out here, where there are so many opportunities as compared with those offered in Scotland. But what I have seen is that the people of the Dominion, in general, are not so well informed as to the opportunities offered in Canada."

"Naturally our problem is to keep the people on the land. As to methods, there are different proposals. For example, the Radcliffe and the Small Holding Act, which is already in force, have proved for the acquisition of large estates and enabling them out in small holdings to the people. But I cannot see how this act has done any good. If a man can make from $25 to $60 in a year, why should he remain in Scotland and when there are such opportunities in the Dominion of Canada?"

"Personally, I think it is an excellent idea to break up the large holdings. If it will have the effect of keeping people on the land, but I cannot see how it is feasible when the land available simply will not support the population. The standard of living here is much better than in Scotland, and yet the land, as formerly, was the end of it will be difficult for any one to foresee."

Improvement in the way of opportunities is being made in the old land, but the Lowlands of Scotland are already crowded. In fact, there are more applications than there is land. There have been fully 50,000 applications for land in the Highlands, but the board of agriculture will never be able to accommodate them."

Colonel Cameron said that many of the best young men and women of Scotland are migrating to Canada. More than 24,000 young men have already left the Clyde for Canada this year, he added, and many more are making preparations to arrive in the Dominion. In the Hebrides the population is now composed entirely of old men and women and children, while in the Isles of Skye, out of a population of 15,000, there are only 1,000 on the old age pension list.

WELL, and to say, I'll have to tear myself away.
That'll be ripping work, it is.

This is the time of year when the horse, the motive power of the farm, suffers most. You would not get the tired man to follow the day harrow, the plough or the binder long if a jug of cool water was not at hand. It is frequently why experts tell the horses to go five or six miles without a drink. If you say you have no water in the field, then take some with you. Get a clean barrel or two. Put them on a wagon or truck—fill with water and haul to the field. Empty them often. Take a pail along and water the horses at two or three times each forenoon and afternoon. Even if you only give them half a pail, each it will greatly refresh them. You should, just as soon attempt to cut a harvest without 'twine as to cut a harvest without a barrel of water in the field for the horses.

A Careless Remark.
Well, and to say, I'll have to tear myself away.
That'll be ripping work, it is.

A St. Louis man went out fishing one day recently. He had a nice lunch spread out, but upon arriving at the fishing place he discovered that he had lost it, so he retraced his steps until he came to a large, satisfied looking colored man, who was seated by the water's edge, fishing. "What a fine catch!" he said, looking at the fish.

There is a deal of difference between being useful and being used.

Interesting Data as to Icebergs.
A three months' cruise of the battleships of the United States service off the coast of the Atlantic, North Atlantic and the Gulf of Mexico, has just been brought to an end, and has resulted in contributions of great value to the mariners' store of knowledge about the movements and dangers to the great fleet constantly passing between Europe and America. The 50 patrol boats, with a direct result of the tremendous snows suffered by both Europe and America in the loss of the giant liner Titanic a year ago last April when more than 2,000 persons were drowned when the vessel collided with an iceberg in the same waters described this year by the same officers.

The vessel engaged in the ice patrol were the cutters Seneca and Miami, commanded by Capt. O. B. Johnson and A. B. Gamble respectively. Capt. Johnson was the senior officer in command of the ice patrol and in his final report are conclusions which ought to form the basis of study by all commanders and navigators of steam vessels in the North Atlantic ship lanes. The Titanic disaster brought to every ocean traveler with shuddering vividness the reality of the danger to the transatlantic sea lanes from the prevalence of ice in the waters during the spring months. To all passengers of such steamers, Capt. Johnson's report may serve as an index to the measure of care and precaution necessary for any ship in the vicinity of the annual path of icebergs in the North Atlantic. The value for the travelling public as well as to mariners.

HEREDITY IN HANDWRITING.
Science Wakes up to a Fact That the Public Have Long Realized.
Non-attentive persons have long realized the remarkable similarity in handwriting of members of the same family, sometimes tracing for half a dozen generations, and now it is becoming a fact that heredity is a law which is as suggestive as it is heredity. Sir Rickman Goddard, president of the Royal College of Surgeons, said recently that he has lately been reading old letters dating back to the early part of the eighteenth century, and he has been struck with the way in which many of our country's fathers and mothers have written, and he has been struck with the way in which many of our country's fathers and mothers have written.

He describes Heligoland as having been changed in an astonishing manner. It has become a great naval fortress with huge the prospect of all classes of people in the province are better than ever before.

"You will be pleased to know that this session, as well as the last, has been a successful one, as well as a suitable residence for the representative of his majesty in this province, is practically complete."

"Good progress has been made by my government so far this year in carrying out the necessary that and bridge building, telephone extensions and various other public works, and it is the intention that these works will be carried on with due regard to the increasing population and the growing necessities of the province."

"The three agricultural schools authorized by you have been erected and will, within a short time, be in actual operation, and I believe will be of great assistance in developing interest in proper agricultural methods in the province."

"The establishing of offices in London, England, and the appointment of an agent-general for the province in England, I am sure, will be of very great benefit to the people of this province in many ways."

"Since last session a commission was appointed by my government for the purpose, with representatives from other provinces and many states of the union, of studying in Europe the question of agricultural credit. A final meeting of all the delegates will be held later and it is hoped that the report when made may be of assistance to the agricultural interest."

"I regret to say that the federal government has not as yet taken any step in regard to placing the prairie provinces in the same position as far as natural resources are concerned as the other provinces of the Dominion. My government is strongly of the opinion that only equality as to terms can the true spirit of confederation be carried out, and will continue to maintain that position."

"The financial provisions of the British North America act are made applicable to all provinces alike."

"At the session there will be introduced a number of important bills, dealing with administrative and other questions, together with a large number of private bills, and to these I would ask your close consideration."

"The public accounts for the last fiscal year will be laid before you, and as estimates of the amounts required for expenditure during the coming year, all the necessary measures to economy and the requirements of the public service."

"Gentlemen of the legislative assembly—I now leave you to the business of the session, having full confidence that your deliberations will be wisely guided to the best interests and welfare of the province."

Mrs. L. Thorne is slightly indisposed, and it will be a few days before she will be recovered sufficiently to undertake the journey to Vancouver.

The trial of Rex vs. Dunlop was determined at Macleod on Friday last. The charge was that of stealing from the postoffice after all the evidence was heard. Mr. Putnam, of Blairmore, counsel for the accused, was defeated before His Honor Judge McNeill that the evidence did not warrant a conviction under the charge of stealing from a post office, and based his reasons that as soon as the accused received the letter from the postmistress it then ceased to be a post letter in the meaning of the criminal code. The crown of course contended it was a post letter, W. M. Campbell, K.C., crown prosecutor, did not think worth arguing the point and left the matter to the judgment of the court. Judge McNeill stated that it seemed a pity that such an offence was punishable with no less than three years to that of life, and under all the circumstances connected with the case would lower the charge and find the accused guilty of common theft and sentence him to four months in Lethbridge instead of three years in Edmonton.

Almon Moore and Putnam, of Blairmore, and Deputy Sheriff of Zlatibor, paid this camp a visit on Wednesday last. The writer is informed that the reason of their visit was on account of the well known lawsuit between William Goodwin and Robert Mitchell over the possession of the James Ashdown ranch. This case, we are informed, has been going on since last March, when it first came up in Macleod before Judge MacNeill, who sent it to Calgary where it came up before His Honor Judge McNeill that the evidence did not warrant a conviction under the charge of stealing from a post office, and based his reasons that as soon as the accused received the letter from the postmistress it then ceased to be a post letter in the meaning of the criminal code. The crown of course contended it was a post letter, W. M. Campbell, K.C., crown prosecutor, did not think worth arguing the point and left the matter to the judgment of the court.
